

Humanitas Holding Offices

This project involved the renovation of an existing volume within the hospital complex of the Humanitas Institute in Rozzano. The building will serve as the new headquarters and for the Humanitas group. The aim of the project is to take advantage of the building's favorable position and create a kind of 'tight box', an ethereal body that permits transparency and visibility from and within the complex. Moreover, thanks to the illumination during the evening, the new volume guarantees that the complex is visible from the street. The connection with the main building is ensured by the creation of a new roof garden that accompanies the visitor's path with blocks of greenery and geometric ponds.
